"CHILDREN'S CRUSADE" FOR BENEFIT OF FRESH AIR CAMP

When we hear of the Crusades we think of plumed knights and warriors who went forth from Western Europe in the 11th, 12th and 13th centuries to rescue Jerusalem and the Holy Sepulcher from the Saracens. Most people never heard of a romantic but earnest crusade of French and German children, fifty thousand of whom for love of God gathered into a crusading army in 1212 and would have won back the Holy Land without sword or spear, but in the power of love.

That adventure has been made the plot of an outdoor play by Elizabeth Woodbridge, which for several years has been acted at Camp Arden, about five miles north of Brattleboro under the direction of Katherine Jewell Everts. The parts are taken by the young ladies of Camp Arden some 45 in number.

Northfield will have the unique privilege of seeing this play in the Cathedral Pines tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon—unique, because it is not acted anywhere else but at Camp Arden. Miss Whitney and Miss Everts, however, have graciously consented to present it here for the benefit of Virginia Fresh Air Camp.

While it is performed by young people the play is equally intended for grown-ups. It is in the class of miracle plays and the Oberammergau pageant, earnestly religious in sentiment and dialogue. For this reason, by the way, the audience is requested not to applaud at any point.

The performance begins promptly at four o'clock. There is a small admission fee which goes to the Fresh Air camp funds. If the afternoon is rainy the performance will be transferred to the Auditorium.

Grangers Have Wonderful Time at Delva Farm

About three hundred members of the Warwick, Orange and Northfield Granges, their friends and families, enjoyed the hospitality of the Delva farm, Warwick, on Saturday. The daylight hours were filled with baseball, quarts, croquet, races and sports of various kinds, as well as swimming, boating and fishing in Hastings pond. Basket lunches were general, although hot dogs, coffee, soft drinks, ice cream, etc., were served at very reasonable rates at the barn. This building should certainly be called by a more imposing name, for it has been remodelled and made over into a real casino, with stage, dancing floor and dressing rooms, etc.

Throughout part of the afternoon and the most of the evening dancing, including all the good old squares as well as the newer round dances, to the accompaniment of a seven piece orchestra was indulged in by all. In the course of the evening, also, the Orange Grange put on some dandy floor exercises with their uniformed Girl's and Men's Degree teams. The Delvas furnished prizes for every member of both teams, as well as for the winners in the various sports of the day. It was a splendid neighborly gathering and a fine piece of hospitality upon the part of the worthy hosts.

Next Meeting of Grange On August 27th

The next meeting of the Northfield Grange will be held Tuesday evening, August 27th instead of the 12th. All members please note accordingly. It is expected that this meeting will be a specially attractive one with program fun as well as other items of interest. The younger members are quite mysterious about their part in the entertainment? It is sure going to be some evening.

Postal Notice

There is now an extra pouch sent from Northfield Post Office to the East Northfield depot, which goes on train southbound. This mail closes at 6 p. m. and mail sent by it should be in New York city the next morning.

Morgan are the officials in charge of the sale.

Friday afternoon they all left by auto for Ware's Grove, Spofford Lake, for the day. The planning of the events was in charge of Miss Grace Hale, Miss Helen Jaderquist, former seminary students, and Elliott Emerson, a Harmonite.

Lawrence Quinlan Offers the Land to be Available as Soon as Corn Crop is Harvested.

Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion, will Co-operate in Laying Out the Field and Take Charge of the Official Opening

That Northfield is to have an airport would now seem to be about as certain as anything on this mundane sphere. The aviation department of the Legion in this state are behind the local Legion Post for a proper show to open and start the field in good shape. Lawrence Quinlan has offered ample room for a combination sea and land plane airport as well as the services of himself and his young folks to help get the field in shape, just as soon as the corn (planted upon a part of the space where the runways would likely be) is harvested. He has also invited the local post to co-operate in this getting the field in shape and also to handle the official opening, as will be noted from his letter published in this issue.

Then the Haven H. Spencer post, American Legion, at a special meeting on Tuesday evening, passed the resolution of acceptance, subject to final approval of the State aviation authorities. Copy of this resolution also printed in full in this issue.

It is understood that as a result of the preliminary surveys made by both State, U. S. Army and commercial companies, that the Quinlan field will be officially commended. This matter is to be handled by the Legion post. As soon as this official approval is secured, work can be begun upon laying out the runways and the water landings and just as soon as the corn is harvested the field can be made ready for the official opening. It is hoped that dates can be arranged for this in the first week of October or, better yet, in the last week of September.

It is hoped that, in addition to the Legion, other public-spirited citizens will come forward with offers to help, either with work or cash contributions. In connection with this last, it might be advertised abroad and the services capital in hand the official opening can be advertised abroad and the services of "stunt" fliers and other attractions secured for the opening days; thus bringing thousands of visitors for this occasion. However, the State Legion Aviation department can provide quite a flock of planes and the presence of an army "blimp" and a battalion of anti-aircraft guns, as well as Legion Bands and Drum Corps is rather to be expected. This with the statewide and even national publicity that will be given to our opening by the Legion, as well as the free publicity in many newspapers and technical journals, will likely bring all the people that can be handled, with the facilities that we will be able to prepare. However, when all is said and done, some cash contributions would be most helpful and would be welcomed at this time.

In our next issue we hope to have much interesting news to chronicle as to further developments in the entrance of Northfield into the aviation industry generally.

Musical Recital at The Northfield August 21st

Letter From Lawrence Quinlan

Meadow Street, Northfield, Mass., August 5th, 1929.

Editor, The Northfield Press:

Confirming conversation with you and Major Wilder I will be glad to co-operate with you in establishing an airport for Northfield upon my property in the meadow.

Appreciating the fact that practically all cash income for some time after the establishment of the port will be necessary for improvements... hangars, repair, office, mechanic's quarters, moorings, markings, beacons and beacon lights, etc. I am going to try to give all possible services of my boys and myself free of charge for the time being.

I would surely welcome the assistance of Haven H. Spencer post of the American Legion in helping to establish the port as well as to officially take charge of the inauguration (which as I understand it, would be along in early part of October) and it seems to me, then on, as the enterprise prosper, the Haven H. Spencer post could be allotted some share in the enterprise, according to the value of the services that individual members may contribute.

At the same time I feel that the co-operation and assistance of every citizen of the town who feels, as we do, that this is going to be an important step forward in the development of employment for our young folks, should be welcomed and invited, as necessary.

Yours truly, Lawrence Quinlan.

Resolution of Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion

At a special meeting of the Haven H. Spencer post, American Legion, held on Tuesday evening, the following resolution was passed:

WHEREAS: The Haven H. Spencer post, American Legion, have heard read with interest the letter from Lawrence Quinlan to the Northfield Press, in which he offers property for an airport in the meadow and invites the co-operation of the Post both in establishing the port and taking charge of the official opening;

THEREFORE, IT IS RESOLVED: That, if the location and suitability of the field meets with the approval of the Aviation Committee of the State Department, American Legion; and the Supervisor of Aviation of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; the Haven H. Spencer Post will be glad to co-operate in the manner indicated.

Northfield Defeats St. Ann's A. A. of Turners Falls

The N. A. A. easily defeated St. Ann A. A. of Turners Falls Wednesday evening by the score of 11 to 2. There was much loose playing on both sides, but the hitting of Miller, Reed and Amsden accounted for most of the home team's runs.

AIR TRANSPORT IN NEW ENGLAND GAINS BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS

Air transportation in New England today is an accomplished fact. With five passenger lines and one mail and express line in regular operation in New England, aviation can no longer be looked upon here as a fad or an experiment. As a matter of fact, alert business men in New England, as elsewhere, have long realized that aviation is a business, and statistics show it to be one of the most rapidly growing industries in the country.

The speed with which aviation is expanding is illustrated by the current development of air transport in the New England states. A year ago the air mail line to New York was New England's only scheduled transport line. This airmail line, incidentally, as operated by the Colonial Air Transport, Inc., was the first "contract airmail route" in the country. Last spring the Colonial began operating its Boston-New York passenger line, which was instantaneously successful. With the coming of summer other passenger routes were started by the Curtiss Flying Service, Airvia, Inc., and North Atlantic, Inc.

Today the devotee of New England's recreational facilities can do business in the cities during the week and enjoy week-ends in the country with hitherto unequalled ease. The resident of New York can leave his office at a Saturday forenoon and eat dinner at Bar Harbor. Returning, he can quit Mt. Desert, Monday morning and be back at his desk in New York just after lunch.

Boston newspapers are being delivered the same evening in New York, using the Colonial passenger line, and summer residents of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket get their Boston papers on the afternoon of publication via the Curtiss Flying Service daily Boston to Nantucket service.

By means of a newly inaugurated daily service to Whitefield, N. H., directed by the North Atlantic Aviation interests and operated by New England Airways and Newhampton Air Service, the great White Mountain recreational area of New Hampshire has been made quickly accessible to the air-minded vacationist. This daily service makes a stop each way at Concord, N. H.

Shortly after the opening of the Colonial New York line, the Curtiss daily service to Nantucket and the Curtiss week-end service to Portland, Rockland and Bar Harbor, Me., were inaugurated.

With the opening of the Airvia route to New York, New England air travelers have their choice between all-water and all-land air routes. The Airvia line, operating big Savoia-Marchetti seaplanes, follows the coast, crossing Cape Cod at the canal and flying thence down the sound. Passengers are taken to and from the planes at both terminals in fast speed boats.

Fare on the various lines have been announced as follows:—

	One Way	Round Trip
Boston—Nantucket	$24.80	$39.70
Boston—Bar Harbor	$45.50	$81.90
Boston—New York (Colonial)	$34.85	$64.70
Boston—New York (Airvia)	$30.00	$60.00
Boston—Whitefield	$30.00	$60.00

N. A. A. Lost to Farley in Last Friday's Game

Northfield lost to Farley Friday night by the score of 5 to 2. Errors by the local team accounted for all of Farley's runs. The hurling of both pitchers was exceptionally good, Farley getting four hits while Northfield only connected with two.

OVER SIX THOUSAND DOLLARS IN PRIZES

Canning Contest That Should Appeal to Many Local People Offered by Sears-Roebuck Foundation

Just how good at canning are Northfield women and girls?

This question suggested itself today from an announcement in Chicago of a National Canning Contest to find the best jar of canned fruit, vegetables or meat in the country. Twelve hundred and fifty dollars ($1250) in cold cash awaits the woman or girl in the United States whose entry is selected as the best jar of canned food entered in the contest. The contest which is sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, seeks to acquaint more housewives with the economy and healthfulness of home canned foods.

Two hundred and twenty-two cash prizes, totalling $5,825, will be disbursed to the winners in the contest, which has three major divisions: fruit, vegetables and meat. The best entry in each division will be awarded $250, and one of these will also receive the thousand dollar sweepstakes prize, thus bringing the total cash prize for the best jar of canned food in the contest to $1,250. Second prize in each of the three divisions will be $200; third prize $100; and fourth prize $50. There will also be five prizes of $25 each, ten prizes of $10 each and fifty prizes of $5 each. In addition, a thousand dollars in cash will be awarded to the home demonstration agent whose county sends in the greatest number of entries, $500 to the agent whose county has the next largest number, and $100 to the agent whose county sends in the third largest number of entries. A number of lesser merchandise prizes are also offered. The contest closes October 15th.

According to the rules, the contest is open to every woman and girl in the United States. There are no restrictions as to the nature of the food sent; any fruit, vegetable or meat, whether home grown or purchased, is acceptable.

Contestants may enter one, two or all three divisions. Entries, regardless of when canned, must not be sent in prior to August 15 nor later than October 1, which is the closing date of the contest. No entries will be returned, but instead these will be sent, with the name and address of the contestant to an orphanage, hospital, infirmary or other charitable institution to be selected by the Foundation.

Specimens of canned fruits and vegetables in the contest will be judged on the basis of clearness, color, pack, neatness, flavor and texture. Meat specimens will be judged in their relation to pack neatness, texture and flavor. There will be three judges, to be selected by the Foundation from a list of outstanding authorities on home economics, domestic science, and canned food. Their decision will be made known just as soon as possible after October 1.

Any method of canning may be used for this contest," announces Anne Williams, director of the contest. "The use of a steam pressure cooker, however, is highly recommended by canning experts and by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, especially in canning meats. Not only does this method of canning save time and fuel and assure absolutely, sterility and preservation, but food canned under pressure retains all its natural flavor and texture, which are vital points in any canning contest."

That the judging may be thoroughly impartial and the display of canned samples absolutely uniform, contestants are required to submit their entries in standard glass jars of the quart size. All contestants will be furnished with one Ball mason jar and carton for sending in a canned article, but those making entries in more than one division are expected to supply their own jars and shipping cartons. The sample jar and prize entry labels for use in submitting entries may be secured without cost by communicating with the headquarters of the National Canning Contest, 925 S. Homan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Miss Polly Parker, Misses Vera and June Wright, enjoyed an auto trip to Troy, N. Y., and to Wilmington, Vt., the latter part of last week.

Goodnow's Singing orchestra of Orange furnishes the music, the dances being run under the auspices of the camp meeting association.

For the first time for several years the Lake Pleasant Inn is being operated by the association through a committee of five of its officers. So far the patronage has been excellent, larger than for many seasons through July, and reservations for August are numerous.

Most of the cottages upon the grounds are occupied and many of the cottagers are booking roomers in numbers which denote a prosperous month of camp meeting.

The first of the series of Monday evening (old fashioned) dancing parties opened with a fair attendance and everyone seemed to enjoy this innovation. They will be held weekly during August.

The Wednesday evening concerts under the direction of John Ringhofer commenced this week.

Services held during the week were conducted by Rev. Maude L. Torrey, Rev. Albert P. Blinn and Mrs. Josephine M. Simon.

Next Sunday Rev. Elizabeth Harlow Goetz of Philadelphia will be the speaker forenoon and afternoon and Rev. Otto von Bourg will give psychic messages at all three services.

James was four years old and considered himself old enough to bathe without maternal assistance. After ten minutes of splashing about in the bath tub by James, mother looked in and asked: "Sonny, have you washed your back?"

"Oh, I guess so," answered James. "Anyway I've washed the front of it."

ONION DELICACIES

By Betty Barclay

Onions are in season, onions are inexpensive, and onions are very healthful. When eaten raw they are rich in one of our important vitamins—and unlike many vegetables, they retain much of their vitamin content when cooked. Use them frequently. A small amount of sugar added while cooking will help to bring out their delicate flavor.

BAKED APPLES AND ONIONS

Slice three medium-size apples and six medium-size onions into a greased casserole in alternate layers. Season each layer with salt, pepper, sugar and butter, using a quarter cup of sugar and two tablespoons of butter for the dish. Add a half cup of water and bake in a moderate oven about three-quarters of an hour.

ONIONS BAKED IN TOMATO SAUCE

Strain a quart can of tomatoes and cook for fifteen minutes with two tablespoons of flour, and one-quarter teaspoon pepper. Then add two tablespoons of butter. Cut six or eight onions into halves and put them in a baking dish. Pour the tomato sauce over the onions and bake about one hour in a moderate oven.

GLAZED ONIONS

Peel medium-size, silver-skin onions and prick them through the centers to prevent breaking while cooking. Place in boiling salted water to which a teaspoon of sugar to a quart of water has been added. Simmer until tender and drain. For a quart of onions, melt two tablespoons of butter in a pan, add one tablespoon of granulated sugar and cook to the bubbling stage. Then add the onions and stir until they are well glazed.

Have you read this one: "The country newspaper man got mad at the city council and ran this item in his paper while still hot: 'Half the city council are idiots.' One of the members threatened the editor with libel suit, and the next week he cooled off enough so that he apologized doing it in this manner: 'Half the city council are not idiots.'"

Brattleboro, Vt.

The Estey Organ Co., one of the principal industries in Brattleboro, resumed work on a schedule of five days a week. For several months the plant has been running on a schedule of four days of eight hours, with the exception of a few departments. At the office it was said that requirements had increased to such a point that nearly all departments had reached nearly full time so it was decided to adopt a full-time schedule except for Saturday forenoon, when only such departments as are behind will be required to work.

James Grady, who recently retired on pension after serving the Central Vermont railroad 57 years, the last 12 as freighthouse foreman, was surprised by the presentation of $50 in gold from the employees, employers and a few firms. Station Agent Walter H. Goodell made the presentation, expressing the appreciation of all for Mr. Grady's faithful service. On his arrival home Mr. Grady found that a bouquet had been sent to Mrs. Grady by railroad men and women.

THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY TRICENTENARY IN 1930

We have been waiting less or more patiently for word from the general committee on the celebration of the Massachusetts Bay Tricentenary in New England in 1930. We have carefully waded through most of the bales of publicity, propaganda and straight news articles and tips that come pouring into this office, advocating or fighting against about everything under the sun.....individual, associate and corporate.....but so far (and it seems to be the same with the press of New England generally) we are without advance notices, tentative programs, mats or anything concerning it.

What's the matter with the publicity department of the committee? Without proper advance publicity of this kind the whole thing will be a flop. Of course we can stage local celebrations here in Northfield and, possibly, at Lake Spofford (it should be remembered that the Granite State was a part of the Massachusetts Bay Colony) just as so many other towns and localities expect to do next year, but without some central direction, with the booking of separate datings it is going to be a higgledy-piggledy sort of arrangement.

It seems to us that this matter of datings is a most important one in order that the local celebrations throughout the summer of 1930 may proceed in a dignified fashion, without undue conflict with neighboring communities at any rate. Then the thousands of visiting tourists can arrange their stops to suit their itineraries and we can all get the benefit of this enormous business. For, of course, aside from all sentiment (a splendid thing in itself, we think) this widespread celebration of the Tricentenary is going to be an added inducement to bring motorists.....awheel and in the air.....to this section next summer.

If the committee can find no better way we would suggest that they might appoint the Press official publication and have all datings booked and disseminated through this newspaper! That would at least bring order out of one element of chaos.....the duplication of datings by nearby communities.....that now seems to us to threaten the big success of the affair. Gentlemen and ladies of the committee, we await your good pleasure.

COME ON IN.....THE AIRPORTING IS FINE!

We believe that the establishment of Northfield as an airport, as chronicled in our news columns, is a tremendous step forward in the development of this community. For one thing, situated on the high banks of the Connecticut River, with ideal conditions for aquaplanes, amphibians and land planes, our port is bound to attract far more attention and resultant business at the start than if it were the ordinary type of inland field.

Quite naturally it is going to bring various subsidiary industries to Northfield.....aviation schools, repair shops, possibly plane and motorboat factories, later on; increased hotel, automobile and automobile garage facilities, more visitors and residents, with the resultant increased business for storekeepers, professional men, and all down the line.

It may be that our snug little town will ultimately find in this airport development a sufficient industry to keep everybody who wants and needs a job, happy and contented. We think that this phase of the matter should operate to banish all local jealousies from our midst and make us want to pull strong together and do everything in our power RIGHT NOW.....EACH AND EVERY ONE OF US.....to help the thing along.

As the days go by it will be found that there will be opportunity for EVERYBODY.....AND THAT MEANS YOU WHO READ THIS.....to do your bit in some form or another.....to forward and help along this very desirable proposition. Don't wait to be invited or asked by anybody. Be yourself. Come on in with the rest of us; the airporting is fine. Cheerio.

HAIL! NEW CHINA!

Things Still Out of Joint in the Celestial Empire but There Are NSigns of a New Day

C. P. O. Box No. 1234,
Shanghai, China,
June 27th, 1929

Dear Editor:

Here comes a letter from this land of intrigue, graft, warfare, famine, suffering, chaos, to tell you and the readers of your excellent paper about China's new woman who has a share in the "going-on."

If a woman in China, twenty years ago, had been given a Rip Van Winkle sleep, she would be more surprised than he was, should she awake today. Then women had to stay indoors and work something like domestic animals. Or, if of a better family, be cooped up at home and stay there. She was allowed to be seen only by her husband or brothers.

Now what a change! The modern Chinese young women skip around the streets with a spring, grace and freedom that's quite refreshing when one remembers the women formerly hobbling along on bound feet supported by amahs. Now girls bob, shingle, or permanent wave their hair. That's a sign of freedom! They ride bicycles, play tennis, basket-ball and engage in other athletics. Formerly the parents arranged their marriage. Now one often sees the young ladies walking very affectionately arm in arm with their "best boys," and the young people often do the arranging. The dress used to be the most modest of any nationality. Now women are often seen with short sleeves and very low-necked frocks even at mid-day. Sometimes they're seen with the most up-to-date up-beyond-the-knee short frocks and flimsy silk hose and very high-heeled shoes. Indeed the Chinese girls are quite amusing flappers sometimes—and shocking sometimes—so much so that the officials have felt it necessary to issue proclamations commanding them to dress modestly. The girls have even learned to flirt in the most up-to-date way. That's freedom! They dance in the latest style. They ride horses, astride, with boots and riding breeches. "That's English, you know."

Once the ideal for girls was that they be able to do beautiful needlework at home. Now they are doing other things. They are clerks in stores. Some are typists and stenographers. Some are bankers. They play the organ or piano or other musical instruments. Some are becoming movie artists or actresses. Some are lawyers and judges and doctors, some are teachers and kindergarteners. They even become soldiers and sometimes they become Generals' secretaries! Women also become street-corner politicians and scream the Revolutionary platitudes such as "down with imperialism," "give the people freedom," to beat the most zealous men Revolutionaries. Rarely do you see meetings for propaganda or riots without seeing girls or women taking active part in them, urging on the riots. I am glad to say that some few of them are taking part in the Red Cross work in relieving the suffering of those wounded in battle. Women, too, occupy places of influence in the government in Nanking. Once women's faces lacked all hope and ambition, and there are still great hosts of women who are the same drudges at home or worse—in great factories. But among the younger generation they have ambition—ambition that carries them to extremes. I'm glad to say that there are many modest, motherly women who have gone through our mission schools who are making nice, clean, beautiful Christian homes where the children are brought up well and taught to be good useful members of society, children of whom they and missions can be proud and thankful. One can not expect great things from a nation in which the people have been brought up for ages in filth, physical and moral; but a new generation is coming on, born anew in the church of Christ and in these clean Christian homes. We are expecting much for China from such. Things are out of joint in China; but we hope and pray that the common sense of better Chinese and the deeply planted power of the Gospel will gradually overcome the criminal influences and that China will find peace, prosperity, and a place among the great nations of the world. Yours in Christ's glad service, Rev. H. G. C. Hallock.

Sunderland

Miss Charlotte Skiff Payne of Framingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Payne of West Orange, N. J., and C. Sydney St. George of Lowell, were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. George P. Bullis. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. M. Spangler of Tyringham, who used the single ring service. Rev. Mr. Spangler was also the officiating clergyman at the wedding of the bride's parents. The bride wore a white crepe de chine gown and carried pink roses. The room was attractively decorated with garden flowers. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Isabel B. Montague, cousin of the bride. Mrs. St. George is a graduate of Concord High school and has been branch librarian at Framingham. Mr. St. George is employed by the R. E. Newman company of Lowell. Travelling the bride wore a green ensemble and tan hat. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. St. George will make their home at Bridge street, Dracut Center.

The regular meeting of the garden section of the Woman's club has been postponed until August 12 and will be held at the home of Mrs. Martha Whitmore.

The Congregational church is closed for the month of August while Rev. Frederick L. Grant is away on his vacation. The congregational has been invited to attend services at the South Deerfield Congregational church during that period.

Laying Up Riches

Matthew 6:19, 20, 21. Jesus said: Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break thru and steal: 20. But lay for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break thru nor steal. 21. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

Luke 12:15. Jesus said unto them. Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.

"Two Men and a Maid" at Garden Theatre, Greenfield

Just to mention those bold adventurers of the Foreign Legion is to expect excitement, while Algeria, burning desert sands and a southern moon spells romance in capital letters. Both abound in "Two Men and a Maid," the Tiffany-Stahl production at the Colonial Garden theatre, Greenfield.

George Archambaud, who has traveled in Algeria and rubbed elbows with Legionaries, has directed this story by John Francis Natteford to bring out a fine delineation in character and to show what happens to two widely differing types of men when discipline tortures and love torments.

The sensitive face of William Collier, Jr., reflects every passing thought and emotion of the priggish young English gentleman who joins the Foreign Legion in a revolution of feeling when his wedding day brings him the discovery that his wife had once had a lover. Calling all women rotten and deceitful, he seeks to forget.

NELSON-PACKARD

Saturday evening was the scene of a very pretty wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Nelson when their youngest daughter, Lillian Eunice, was united in marriage to Clifford Sylvester Packard, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Packard of the Barton road.

To the strain of the wedding march played by Mrs. Baird Cairns of Worcester, Mass., a cousin of the bride, from Lohengrin, the groom, with his brother, Clayton Packard as best man, entered the room from one side, while from the other side came the bride's sister, Miss Eleanor Nelson as bridesmaid.

Two little flower girls, Miss Alida Cairns of Great Barrington, dressed in pink and Miss Dorothy Buchanan of Albany, N. Y., dressed in blue, each carrying bouquets of larkspur and snapdragons. Following these came the little ring bearer, Dana Crowell, carrying the ring on a blue satin cushion. Then came the bride.

The ceremony was performed under an arch of hemlock. The double ring service was used with Rev. Margaret Barnard and Rev. A. L. Truesdell the officiating clergymen. The living room, where the ceremony was performed was decorated with hemlock, large ferns and golden rod. The lace curtains were dotted with small sprays of hemlock, also the same in the front hall, with the banisters also being trimmed with the green.

The bride was daintily attired in white georgette, carrying a bridal bouquet of pink rose buds. Her travelling dress was midnight blue chiffon ensemble with tan shoes, tan hat and black coat.

The bridesmaid was dressed in flowered chiffon and carried snapdragons and larkspur.

Mrs. Packard, mother of the groom wore dark blue georgette and Mrs. Nelson, mother of the bride, wore blue figured crepe.

The groom presented his best man with a fountain pen. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was flowers. To the flower girls beads and the ring bearer a toy.

After the ceremony a pleasant reception was held when cake, ice-cream and punch was served, the intermediate families being present, about 50 in number.

The bride is a graduate of Powers Institute, class of 1929, and is very popular among her friends. She has been assistant librarian at Cushman library for some time.

Mr. Packard attended Greenfield High school and has lived at home helping on the farm and carrying the school children during the school term.

The love and esteem of their many friends was shown by many gifts of value and usefulness, including a lovely floor lamp, silver ware, glass, china, beautiful embroidery, towels, wool blankets, clock and many other things. The happy couple did not try to elude the vigilance of their friends by taking a too sudden leave, but faced the music, receiving a good supply of rice and confetti to help them on their way. The bride and groom left for an auto trip of two weeks, going through New York state, Niagara and Canada.

Upon their return they will live for the present with Mr. Packard's parents and the best wishes of their many friends go with them.

FALSE ALARM

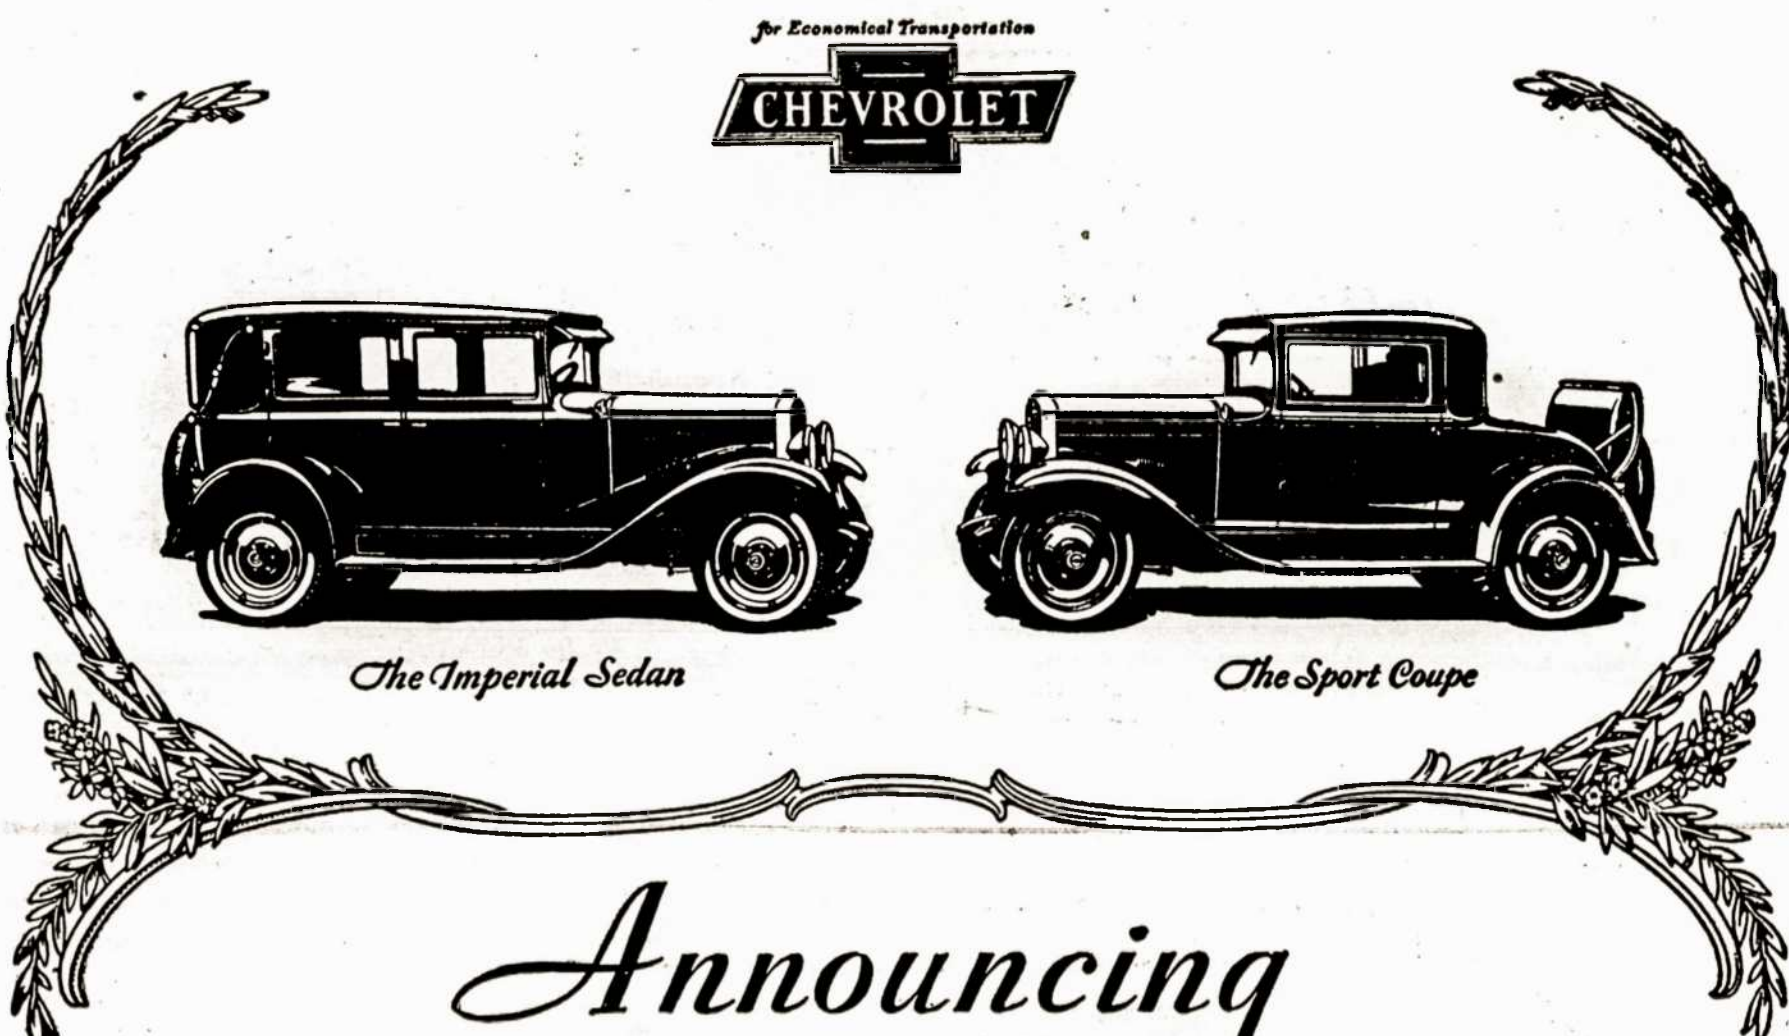

Brown was a very light sleeper, and took a long time getting to sleep. One night he was obliged to stay at a hotel, and after much tossing about finally succeeded in getting to sleep. Two hours later came a loud knocking on his door.

"What's wanted?" he asked sleepily. "Package downstairs for you, sir," came a bellboy's voice.

"Well let it stay there. It can wait until morning I suppose?"

The boy shuffled down the corridor and after a long time Brown fell asleep again. Then came another knocking at the door. "Well, what's up now?" queried Brown.

"It isn't for you, that package."

"I've Been Reading"

By WILDER BUELL

"A PREFACE TO MORALS", by Walter Lippmann, MacMillan, pp 339, price $2.50. "THE OTHER SIDE OF MAIN STREET", by Wilder Buell Longmans Green, pp 339, price $2.00.

It is extremely gratifying to the author of "The Other Side of Main Street" to read "The Preface to Morals". All those who try to live by thinking instead of entirely by tradition and feeling are lonely souls, often wondering if what they see in the world can be true, since no one else sees it. But the publication of Mr. Lippmann's book is convincing proof of the truth of that dictum of philosophy that all those who think, think alike. Mr. Lippmann is the editor of the New York World and has had a long and distinguished career as an editorial writer. For many years he has been thinking and writing on political, social, economic and religious questions and has been advisor to many statesmen, educators, and others who are trying to lead the people. His mind has steadily matured and ripened and he is looked upon by a wide circle of thoughtful men as one of our leading philosophers. What he has to say as to the trend of the times in the field of morals is authoritative to many and suggestive to all. "A Preface to Morals" is a discussion in clear and vital prose of the social and moral tendencies of the modern world, not as they ought to be, but as they are.

He gives it to you straight. "The Other Side of Main Street" is the same thing in artistic form, sugar-coated with comedy. The philosophy, the point of view, the theme and the working out of the detail in the two books are identical.

It is Mr. Lippmann's theme that a new realignment of morals in the wider sense of that term must be made now that the old sanctions and traditions have collapsed due to the growth of the machine age and the advancement of the scientific spirit. The first part of the book is devoted to an analysis of the disappearance from the world of the older types of Fundamentalist religion and the failure of the Modernist type to cope with the situation. He shows religion, in the older sense, as simply inefficient in the modern world. He explains why it is impossible for an increasingly large proportion of the modern population to follow the traditional ways in religion and morals, even though they might desire to do so. He then goes on, in the latter part of the book, to point out that a new morality is developing which is based squarely on machine civilization and is at its best and highest in the man who has devoted himself to the sciences, especially those of physics, chemistry and technology. He believes this to be the type toward which the whole world is tending and that the "disinterestedness" of the engineer is one with "high religion."

"The Other Side of Main Street" is the story of a town where this philosophy has been in actual effect for a hundred years, a long enough time for industrialism and Unitarian humanism to crystallize and produce a distinct culture. Far from being, as some have supposed, a backwater, a quaint survival, Pudding Center is the town of the future. Pudding Center is the prototype of what the whole world will be like twenty-five or fifty years from now, if Walter Lippmann is right in his "Preface to Morals."

MacDowell Benefit at Keene Was a Big Success

The MacDowell Benefit at the Colonial Theatre, Keene, N. H., Monday, July 29 opened promptly and with a capacity house. Mrs. MacDowell played very beautifully and from memory, selection of MacDowell manuscripts. At intermission this collection was sold at auction for $250.

She was greeted with an ovation from the audience and was given a magnificent bouquet of rose buds from the federation women throughout the state of New Hampshire. Gov. Tobey making the presentation speech.

Homer Saint-Gaudens spoke on the need for imaginative recreation in American life.

Walter Hartwig, director of the Marlborough Players, presented a very amusing and enjoyable sketch of "Crabbed Youth and Age", the cast chosen from his student artists from the MacDowell Colony.

The Colony people were given a party by Frohman when they returned that night.

The purpose of the benefit was to help raise the mortgage encumbering the MacDowell Colony and was a decided success. Over $3000 had been received before the performance and the auction brought about $400 more. The benefit was given under the auspices of the Women's club of Keene with Mrs. Florence Wilbur, chairman.

Thus wrote Euripides, ages ago. And thus quoted Old Hutch, Napoleon of Wheat in the stormy eighties, after his biggest deal.

Was gripping life story of Old Hutch (B. F. Hutchinson) is told, for the first time, by Edward Jerome Dies in "The Plunger," a new Coriolis-Friede best seller. It is a thrilling tale of the old wheat pit, and vivid scenes live again as the great master of speculation dreams of world power. The book, says the New York Times, "is written with such dash, such style, with so keen a savor of the drama enacted, with such unfeigned joy in the spec at which the epic unfolds, that the reader is left more breathless than by any cinema, and would not exchange the volume for any half dozen of in-trovert novels."

While the story chiefly concerns picturesque Old Hutch, himself a character for an American Euripides, the whole troupe of historic plungers—Armour, Gray, Harper, Leiter, Ure's Dan'l Drew, Fisk and Keene—marching down the chapters in a cruel and brilliant pageant. It is a powerful book of tremendous reality, say leading critics.

"Doctor, do you think the anesthetic will make me sick?"
"No, madam," replied the surgeon.
"I think not."

But still she was not satisfied. "But," she continued, "how long will it be before I know anything?"

"Madam," replied the other gravely as he signalled to his assistant that he was ready, "don't you think that is asking a great deal of anesthetic?"

Olson in Fight Against Crime

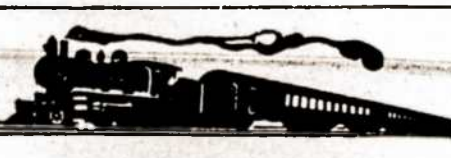

WALTER E. OLSON

Chicago business leaders have banded together to get at the root of crime in their own city and in other cities in the United States—they have established a school for scientific crime detection at Northwestern University and will wage a comprehensive campaign to find the cause of its growth.

An endowment fund of $300,000 will be used in the fight controlled by a board of directors under the name of the Chicago Scientific Crime Detection Laboratory corporation. One of the most active of these directors is Walter E. Olson, president of the Olson Rug Company, one of the largest manufacturers of domestic rugs and carpets in the world. Mr. Olson, with Bert A. Massee, was an original sponsor of the idea.

The purpose of the school is primarily to wage a scientific warfare on crime, rather than to offer courses in police work, although it will offer instruction in ballistics, finger prints, chemistry of poisons, psychology of criminals, and associated studies. The school will be opened in October.

Beach Peaches Jam Summer Resorts As Whole Land Joins in New Leisure

PEORIA, Ill.—Not hard to look at, is she? And there are hundreds of thousands more like her, crowding lake, river and ocean beaches this summer. The growing craze for recreation has struck the country with full force.

Everyone's outdoors. All baseball attendance records were broken this summer. There is a rush to tennis courts. Country clubs and their membership rolls increase over night. The parks are packed, day after day. Highways are jammed with more motorists than ever to this new cult of leisure.

And the bathing beauties! Where can they all come from in their sun-tan suits, making even the smallest beach rival a Ziegfeld Follies or a George White's Scandals?

Emancipated from home they are making the most of new hours of freedom for recreation, relaxation from household responsibilities. There's a new play spirit, spread through the land by the ease with which even inexperienced housewives now manage their duties.

A flip of a switch, toast and coffee are ready. From a mechanical refrigerator comes fruit, chilled for the table. A vacuum cleaner "tidies up" the house. Almost automatic processes take much of the old work out of preparing the other meals. The hardest task of all, clothes-washing, is out to a relatively few easy minutes, points out the household research bureau, conducted by the makers of ABC washers, in the porcelain tub and Spinster water-extractor that many housewives have adopted.

"Women never really began to live until machinery took the toil out of their homes and gave them this new leisure," says the bureau.
